ADVERTISEMENT TO THE READER.

 Y a Convention made between his late Majesty and the Landgrave of Hesse Cassel, in March 1725-6, the Parliament then sitting, but not laid before them till the Session after, the Landgrave was to keep 12000 Men in Readiness for two Years, to act where the Case of the defensive Alliance concluded at Hanover should require. In Consideration of which we were to pay him a Subsidy of 125,000 l. which was to be in full Satisfaction of all Demands for those two Years, unless the Troops should sooner be taken into actual Service, and then Pay was to be allowed them from the Time of their being so taken into actual Service, upon the Foot of a Convention made for some Hessian Troops during the last War. The Subsidy of 125,000 l. was paid at the Times prescribed by the Convention, and before the Expiration of the two Years, 170,000 l. was given on Account of Pay, as if the Troops had been taken into actual Service, though they have hitherto continued in the Landgrave's Country. The full Pay has been since allowed them for the Years 1728, 1729, and 1730, and has amounted in the whole, including the first Subsidy, to 1,026,581 l. 15 s. 7 d.

The annual Pay of these Troops which is 241,259 l. 1 s. 3 d. amounts to Sixpence in the Pound upon all the Lands of England.

Memorandum,

The Preamble to the Treaty of Alliance made between his Majesty and the Duke of Brunswick-Wolfenbützel Nov. 25, 1727, is in the following Words.

“ That the most serene House of Brunswick-Lunenbourg has always endeavoured to preserve “ and cultivate a strict Friendship between all its “ Branches, which has contributed not only to the “ Honour and Prosperity of the said most serene
 “ House, but has likewise been for the Advantage
 “ of the Protestant Religion, the Interests whereof
 “ the said most serene House has always had at “ Heart.

“ His Majesty the most serene King of Great “ Britain Elector of Brunswick-Lunenbourg, and his “ most serene Highness the Duke of Brunswick-Lunenbourg-Wolfenbützel judging that it will be very “ necessary for the mutual Good of their said
 “ House, as well as for the Benefit of the Protestant “ Religion, to strengthen the antient Union by new “ Engagements between his said Majesty and his “ said most serene Highness, with the only View
 “ and Intention to give to each other a Reciprocal “ Guarantie of their own Countries, and without any “ Design to give any Trouble, or to cause any Injury “ either to the Emperor or Empire, nor to “ any other Power whatsoever. They have for “ this Purpose given their sufficient Powers to, &c.

In Pursuance of this Treaty Great Britain is to pay One Hundred Thousand Pounds in four Years.
